Housing Bill Amendments Prepared for Parliament In Ball Room Tomorrow

Session Will Be Broadcast Over C.B.C.

Amendments have been tabled today to the L.P.P. Bill on Housing which is to be presented at the Mock Parliament tomorrow. The Bill, the Liberal Amendment, the C.C.F. Sub-amendment, and the Progressive Conservative statement of policy are reproduced in The Daily today. Part of the session will be broadcast over the CBC.

The Prime Minister heading the Labor Progressive Administration for this session is John Switzman, and the Bill will be presented by the Minister of Reconstruction, Norman Nerenberg. The Leader of the Opposition (Liberal) will be John Chipman.

LIBERAL AMENDMENT

The Liberals in their Amendment modify the clause on billeting, and change the clause on slum clearance, stressing that slums shall be destroyed by areas rather than by units. Otherwise the Liberals express themselves in favor of the Bill, and an official of the McGill Liberal Club has indicated that in the opinion of his group the Bill does not depart from the principles involved in past enactments of the Liberal Government.

The Progressive Conservatives will support the Housing Bill as amended by the Liberal Opposition. Their leader in the House will be William Archer.

C.C.F. Stand

The C.C.F., as indicated by their Sub-amendment, go further than the government by advocating the immediate government control of specified industries, such as Canada Cement Ltd., and other plants producing housing materials.

In an official statement of opinion of the C.C.F. on the financing of housing, it is held that: "The suggestion of the 'Billion Dollar Loan' seems to have been a politically conceived afterthought as an emotional bid for votes, rather than an intelligent approach to a fundamental part of any housing project." The C.C.F. will be headed by John A. MacDonald.

CBC Broadcast

It was announced by Boris Berrier, Chairman of the Mock Parliament Steering Committee, that half an hour of this session of the Mock Parliament will be broadcast over the CBC. This will include part of the Question Period, Orders of the Day, and the presentation of the Bill with the reply from the Opposition.

Topics of Discussion

The business of the House will fall into three parts: a question period, in which all students present may ask questions of the Government; the Housing Bill, which will be discussed by the four parties, then open for discussion by the whole House, and then voted upon; (Continued on Page Four.)

L.P.P. Bill

(This text can be clipped for reference in the Mock Parliament.)

WHEREAS an emergency exists throughout the Dominion in regard to the lack of housing accommodation for large numbers of Canadian people and in particular returned veterans.

WHEREAS such lack of housing in the main affects the lower-income group of the population.

WHEREAS this lower-income group cannot afford to pay more than 1/5 of income on rentals.

WHEREAS private enterprise cannot provide the housing to fit this lower-income group.

WHEREAS the lack of adequate housing with consequent overcrowding has resulted in the further spreading of slums, with the attendant increase of disease, juvenile delinquency, crime, and other social evils, and adversely affected the health and welfare of a large part of the people, and

WHEREAS this government has determined that the minimum requirements to deal with this emergency are 500,000 new homes in five years, and only government responsibility and government measures can cope with this emergency.

THEREFORE be it resolved that this House adopt the following measures to provide the people with decent homes within their income in the shortest time possible;

A This House shall establish

(a) A Dominion Housing Authority to be responsible for all Dominion housing activities

(b) a Dominion Town Planning Agency to promote and coordinate all town and community planning throughout the Dominion

(c) both agencies shall work in close cooperation under the authority of the Minister of Reconstruction.

B Emergency Measures:

(a) the government shall be empowered to take over immediately all vacant apartment houses for sale, vacant hotels, and any other vacant dwelling units for the purpose of accommodating needy families, with priority for veterans, to set rents within the income of such families, said buildings to be returned to their owners on termination of the emergency.

(b) the government shall be empowered to immediately billet needy families in large dwellings which have few occupants and to set rents within the income of such families. In all cases the present occupant may give cause before a court why the dwelling concerned may not be so used.

(c) all present construction shall immediately come under review and the government shall be empowered to stop all such construction that does not conform to priorities established in section E.

C Low Rental Homes

(a) the government shall immediately sponsor a low-rental building program to erect 50,000 homes annually in the next five years, the first 50,000 homes to be built shall be made available to veterans.

(b) Municipal housing authorities, as agents of municipal governments, shall be established for the construction and operation of low-rental projects in areas concerned. These authorities shall determine the local housing need and apply to the national housing authority.

(c) the N.H.A. shall upon consideration of the national need, determine the annual program of each locality, and make available funds up to 90 per cent of cost of construction and operation of such low-rental projects at 2 per cent interest to be refunded in a period not exceeding 50 years.

(d) for each 1,000 homes built under the act in a given locality, it shall be mandatory that a fixed ratio of slum houses be destroyed, such ratio to be set by agreement of national housing authorities with each local housing authority according to the state of the local housing supply.

(e) all building under this act shall come under a municipal town plan to be approved by the National Planning Agency. Each municipal plan shall include provision for all modern amenities such as central heating, laundry, and shopping facilities, municipal playgrounds, parks, schools, libraries, hospitals, etc.

(f) homes built under this act shall be made available to wage earners of income not more than $1,500 per year, at rentals to be set according to income and accommodation, but not to exceed 1-3 of such income.

(g) any deficit sustained in the operation of such low-rental projects shall be covered by the Federal government.

(h) the National Housing Authority shall establish minimum standards of maintenance which shall be incorporated into all contracts with municipal housing authorities to prevent deterioration of such projects into slums.

(i) the National Housing Authority shall establish minimum standards of maintenance which shall be incorporated into all contracts with municipal housing authorities to prevent deterioration of such projects into slums.

Assistance to Small-Home Owners:

In order to provide another 50,000 homes annually and in order to encourage home ownership, loans shall be made available through a government financial agency set up for that purpose up to a maximum of 90 per cent of $6,000 at 3 per cent interest to be refunded within 30 years.

E Materials and Labor

(a) Materials

1) all construction materials shall immediately come under government control.

2) said materials shall be made available in the following order of priority:

i. for low-rental homes.

ii. to small home owners, for hospitals, schools and similar community-necessary building as approved by the municipal housing authority.

iii. industrial building necessary for increasing employment.

iv. any other building as approved by N.H.A.

3) Crown companies shall be immediately established where N.H.A. finds inadequate building supplies exist or where prices are considered excessive.

i. to ensure all construction materials necessary are available to implement the outlined program.

ii. to determine costs and fix prices on such materials.

4) the N.H.A. shall be empowered to investigate all private concerns producing building materials and if found to be impeding maximum output those concerns shall be taken over and run by the government.

5) a research institute shall be established under the N.H.A. for the development of new processes, techniques, and materials, for the standardization of materials needed to reduce the cost and speed up the building of homes.

(a) Labor

1) skilled labor shall be made available on the same basis of priority as materials.

2) an immediate training program shall be undertaken to provide the necessary skilled labor in the construction program to be launched. Special inducements shall be provided to encourage veterans and young people to enter these training courses.

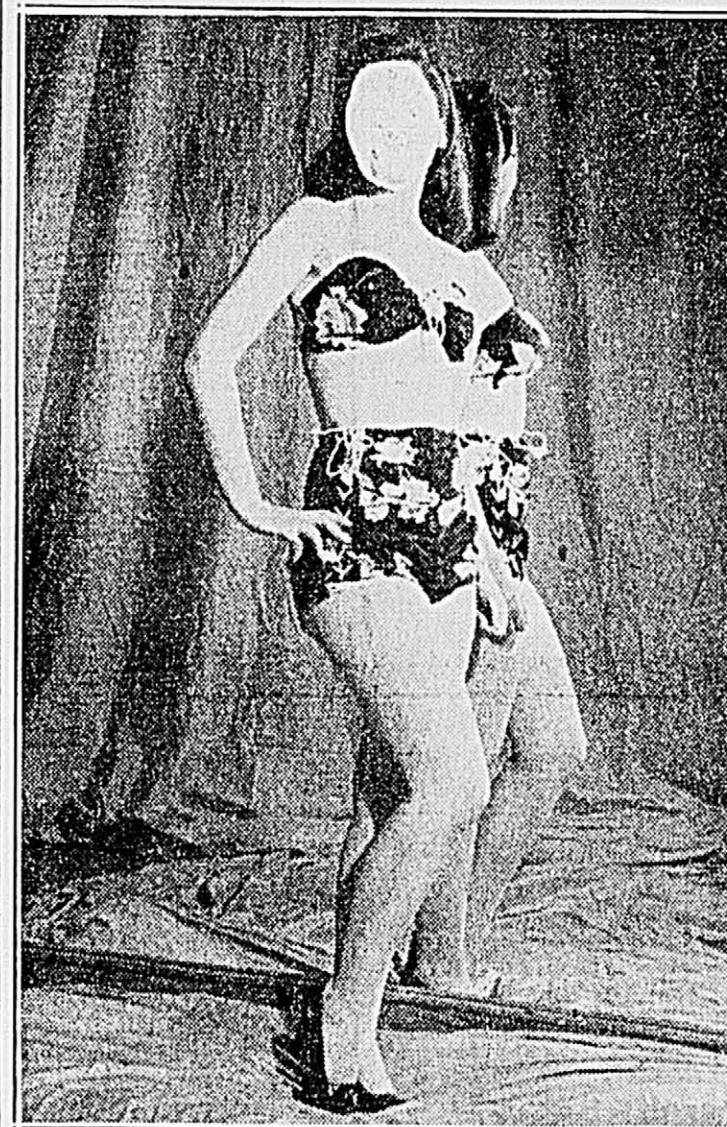

3) a minimum annual wage for building trades workers shall be established by consultation with employers and trade unions.

4) trade unions shall be represented on all bodies concerned with this building program.

F Finance:

(a) This government shall float a popular loan similar to war loans of $1,000,000,000 at 3 per cent interest to provide the finances necessary for the measures in this act, said loan to be known as National Housing Loan and to be open to

Foreign Spy at McGill Involved In Hunt for Revue's 'The Shape'

Story of Espionage and Intrigue from Ottawa Throws New Light on Identity of Mysterious Co-ed; Desperate Saboteur Arrested on Campus

By PEGLEG WESTLER
(Special to The Daily)

Ottawa, Feb. 25. — An incredible story of international espionage involving McGill University, a foreign agent on the campus, a mysterious, beautiful co-ed and a bathing suit was revealed here tonight by a high government official.

The announcement was regarded here as the first concrete statement on the situation since the Prime Minister revealed the leakage of secret information to a foreign power—the only other accurate information in the daily press being the enthusiastic reports that rumors are rife in Ottawa.

The high official, in naming the foreign agent who was apprehended in an arrest on the McGill campus, revealed that he is in custody here. The official, who is employed at the Department of Fisheries, was undoubtedly high when he made the announcement at the Chateau Laurier here, and he insisted that his identity remain secret for fear of reprisals on relatives still living in Quebec.

Revue Chorines Present Six Tap Dance Routines

Dance Director Frankly Amazed At Girls' Ability By "Katie"

After many long hours of arduous rehearsal, and after the utterance of many varied and enlightening epithets on the part of the Dance Director, the chorus line of the Red and White Revue of 1946 may be described as "eye opener." To prove our case may we present the evidence (hereafter referred to as exhibit one), shown at the top of the page.

Twice a week for the past three months these ambitious co-eds (as shown in exhibit one) have climbed the weary flight of stairs to the Union Ballroom. Once there they have religiously practised their complicated routines under the critical eye of Peter Miller, one of Montreal's best known dance instructors. Many a meeting has been held up as the owners of more appreciative eyes found excuses to pass through the Ballroom, however no official complaint from any executive has been received up to the time of going to press (due, no doubt, to exhibit one).

The change in the girls' dancing ability (see exhibit one) since rehearsals began is startling indeed. Instead of hearing a rather confused shuffling accompanying the music, you now hear the music accompanying the fast rhythm of a tap routine (provided you buy a ticket to the Revue of course). Even the wildest hopes of the Dance Director were surpassed, and he can be pretty wild at times.

Credit must go where credit is due, and in this case a great deal of this commodity must go to the girls themselves for giving so unselfishly of their time, energy, and . . . (see exhibit one). This edition of the Revue will feature the chorus line no less than six times (and at cheaper rates than former years too). Reliable sources state that each routine is very well presented (OK just one more look), so here's to the chorus of the Red and White Revue of 1946.

The arrest of the foreign agent at McGill, he said, took place on February 16, in the Physics Building where the agent was caught red handed taking photographs.

"It all goes back several months ago," said the high source, "when students at McGill were planning the Red and White Revue." (Tickets go on sale today.—Ed.)

"There was a search on the campus," the high official went on, "for the most beautiful, shapely young lady at the university for a leading part in the production of this lavish extravaganza.—Ed.)

"A great publicity campaign featuring 'The Shape' was started, but little did the producers of the Red and White Revue (buy your tickets today.—Ed.) realize that the campus-wide search would grow into one of the greatest international intrigues in Canada since the government overlooked the activities of Adrien Arcand.

The difficulties presented in the search for 'The Shape,' the high civil servant revealed, soon were apparent to the directors of the Red and White Revue. (You really ought to see it.—Ed.) An impartial judge had to be secured, lest any students doing the judging be subjected to distracting pressure by the contestants.

"What appeared to be an ideal choice presented itself to the students. I cannot reveal his nationality, but he works for a well-known European democracy and his name is Vassily P. Blotkov. This is the man who is being detained," said the official, as news-men raced for telephones.

This correspondent, not having quite made the telephones in time, returned to hear the rest of the (Continued on Page Four.)

Middlebury Debate Eliminations Run Off

The Middlebury Debate Eliminations will be run off this afternoon at 5:15 in the board room.

The topic of this debate is Resolved that there is a basis for industrial peace under capitalism. McGill will defend the topic but speakers may take either side of the topic. This debate is scheduled for the long week-end in March and will be a return debate. A Middlebury Debating team was defeated in a contest held in McGill in December.

PRODUCTION OPENS MARCH 13; MOYSE HALL FOR 4 NIGHTS

Tickets for the first Red and White Revue since 1941 go on sale today, it was announced last night by the committee in charge of the production of McGill's annual musical production.

Special prices have been set for the student body, lower than the box office rates for the general public, and also lower than prices charged in past years.

PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

The executive regret to announce that this evening's meeting has been cancelled due to the illness of Dr. Dharmi. The meeting will be held next week.

Since the number of tickets for each performance is limited, and the demand for tickets from outside sources is rather heavy, the Directors have consented to make tickets available to the students several days before they go on sale to the general public.

Sale of Tickets

Tickets are being sold for each performance, but there will be no reserved seats. They are obtainable at the Tuck Shop in the Union, and from the Janitors of the Arts, Biology, Engineering, and Medical Buildings. They will also be on sale at Dawson College.

Performance dates are scheduled for March 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, at 8:30 with an additional matinee on Saturday, March 16th, at 2:30.

Box Office Prices

The prices of the tickets will vary according to the night of the performance. They will cost $1.00 for the student body, and $1.25 for the public, for the Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday productions. The Saturday night performance is priced at $1.25 for students, and $1.50 for outsiders, while the Saturday matinee will cost $.75 and $1.00 respectively.

Later this week tickets may be obtained at Hartney's new store, but the exact date has not yet been announced.

Eastern Settling

This edition of the Revue has its setting in the mysterious east, and is complete to depicted Pashas and harems. The highlight of the show will be the Second Act, which is set in a tavern; this is reported to be very carefully worked out, as it is the first time that anyone has ever tried to portray an eastern tavern. Specialty dance routines are to be presented, and also the song "Dreams," which is to be sung by a group of barmalids.

Ballet Sequence

The Third Act is to open with a ballet sequence, which is immediately followed by a revolution. In the finale all the lovers are united in the approved manner, while the wicked tyrant is deposed, to the joy of the assembled multitude.

Original Music

All the music in the Revue is original, and it is also all written by students on the campus. There are many catchy songs, such as "My Lonely Heart's Pleading," "Dusty Rose," and "Dreams." Of special interest is a marching song, which the Music Director hopes will become one of the official songs of the University. The overture was scored specially for the Revue by Alan Melvor, well known CBC conductor. The only non-student participants in the show will be the orchestra, which are to be union men, otherwise the whole show is to be a campus production.

CUP WIRES

Ottawa: University of Ottawa debating team has won the French Inter University debating society Villeneuve trophy. Topic of the debate was "Resolved that the moral, social, political and economic situation of Canada is satisfactory."

Toronto: Plans to approach the Rockefeller Foundation to obtain assistance for the building of an International House here have been announced by the International Students Club. The proposed house would serve as a co-educational residence for students attending Varsity from foreign countries, and would provide an international cultural centre amalgamating all international clubs. ISC disclosed that the plans will proceed even without outside financial aid.

The Revue Is Coming!

The Red & White Revue, for many years an institution at McGill, was last seen on this campus in 1940. Owing to the difficulties and restrictions of war it was then considered wise to suspend the show until the war was over. This year one of the major extra-curricular activities of this University has been revived.

Those who will see the Revue in two weeks will perhaps not realize how much time and effort has been put into such a production. The student-actors, musicians and singers who appear on the stage of Moyses Hall are only a fraction of the number of men and women engaged in the planning and execution of the Revue. Many have contributed in the stage construction and designing, with costumes, make-up, lighting, writing the script, composing music and lyrics, business arrangements, publicity, advertising, tickets, program planning and poster designs. Others again have supervised all this work and have sat together through long and sometimes stormy meetings and tried to tie all the branches of activity into one compact show.

The Revue of 1946 has met with a number of difficulties unknown to previous productions. After a pause of six years much of the equipment and experienced administrative talent has been unavailable. For this reason, and partly because a new plan seemed advisable, the producers have effected a change in the general structure of the Revue. In the past the show consisted of a series of skits which were produced independently in the general framework of the show. This year an over-all plot has been provided which will serve to make the show more compact and continuous in development.

With the revival of the Red & White Revue McGill once more returns to the forefront as a producer of musical entertainment, a position held in the past years solely by the University of Montreal, whose annual revue has provided excellent entertainment for French students and the general public every season.

The Red & White is one of the major functions of this campus which are under the direct jurisdiction of the Students' Executive Council. The Council approves the budget for the show and covers its expenses, taking in the gate receipts to cover this outlay. In this way the producers of the Revue are directly responsible to the campus' governing body; this ruling ensures that the greatest possible effort will be made by all concerned with the show to make it both a financial success and an evening's entertainment that will prove agreeable to the students. We sincerely hope that the revival of an old tradition at McGill will prove to be as successful as the many Revues that have gone before it.—C. W.

"Elementary, My Dear Fatson"

By Cohen and Doyle

Scanning my notes concerning the numerous cases in which I assisted the famed detective, Sherlock Holmes, my attention was drawn to one little-known affair that occurred immediately after the famous "Black Diamond" mystery had been solved.

I was sitting in my esteemed friend's lodgings, on Butcher street, when our morning repast was rudely interrupted by a breathless young man, who rushed in, demanding to see Holmes.

"Mr. Holmes, you must come at once. Something terrible has happened," he exclaimed.

Holmes looked up from his newspaper, and coolly eyed the intruder.

"I gather you are a student from Cambridge," he said.

The youth halted in amazement, and replied that Holmes was correct in his assumption.

"How did you do it?" I asked.

"Elementary my dear Fatson. He wears thick glasses, showing he does a large amount of reading. In his right hand he has a stub for the 3.45 at Charing Station, which is the daily train for the University. He is wearing his college tie, his students' gown, and besides he is my nephew."

"Extraordinary."

"Undoubtedly some foul murder has been committed," he continued, "and you want me to solve it. Fatson, my lad, load your revolver, pack my bobby socks, and we shall leave for Cambridge."

On the train, we learned the full details of the case. Holmes' nephew told us that one of the most popular instructors at the University, Professor K. Montgomery, now renowned Chemist, had been murdered. The local police were baffled and had no clues with which to start investigating.

Met at the station by the Headmaster, Dr. C. Rames, Holmes assured that rather distraught gentleman, that he would quickly solve the mystery, and then proceeded to the scene of the crime.

The Professor lay sprawled on his desk. In his right hand was a sheet of paper while a siletto protruded from his back at a sharp angle. His face was slashed into ribbons, and signs of a struggle were quite evident.

"Tut, tut," murmured Holmes, as he surveyed the scene through his powerful magnifying glass. "I never thought a professor could be such a cut-up. Look at his eyes. One is tightly closed, the other is staring into space. Obviously, an open and shut case. Also, take note of that piece of dirt in his eye."

"Sedimentary, my dear Holmes."

"Now, let us see what else is in the room. Usual scientific books, microscope, latest Esquire. Oh! Pieces of a genuine American Colonial period soup bowl."

Realizing Holmes was an inveterate collector of bric-a-brac I was yet surprised to find that his knowledge extended into the field of pottery and I demanded how he knew the particular period.

"Very simple," he answered, "George Washington slumped here. However, our course of action is clear. We must attend the students' production of 'Hamlet' tonight."

"But, Holmes, our investigation."

"Right. A little pleasure first, though."

That night Holmes seemed rather moody, as he sucked on his pipe. To divert him, I asked whether he had ever done any acting.

"Why no," he said, "but once I had my leg in a cast."

At that moment, the curtain went up and Holmes appeared wrapped up in the drama. The acting was rather on the mediocre side and when Hamlet fumbled with his "To be or not to be" soliloquy my companion had a faint trace of a smile about his lips.

At the end of the performance we went backstage, ostensibly to congratulate the actors. Confronting the wild-eyed youth who had played the main role, Holmes suddenly exclaimed, "He's our murderer. Arrest him."

To the amazement of everyone, the accused made no attempt at denial, but sobbed out a confession. All those present asked for an explanation of how Holmes had solved the mystery.

"Elementary," he began in his usual way. "As you remember, there was a list in the Professor's hand, showing the results of the exams in the First Chemistry Course Examinations."

"Only one student had failed to pass, and the name seemed very familiar. Suddenly I remembered it was that of a famed actor, and concluded his son was attending University."

"As far as I reconstructed the crime the youth came into the Professor's study, determined to find out whether he had passed."

"2b or not 2b? Is what he probably asked, referring to the next course offered in the subject."

"When told he had failed, he flew into a rage and killed the Professor. My opinions were confirmed on account of the nervousness when he stumbled over the same lines in the play."

"Really Fatson! What is so funny?" asked Holmes.

"I just got it Holmes. George Washington slumped here. Ha, ha, ha."

Time and Tide

Dehydrated Music

This is the Age of—among other things—dehydration. In a small package one can get the most magnificent things; even music. Consider the "Cornish Rhapsody", that has been featured lately, every day, on the local Radio stations.

Rarely has so much music been condensed into so few minutes of playing time, as in the "Cornish Rhapsody."

Starting with a bang, it skips gaily through every phase of the standard Concerto, touching briefly the great highlights, giving us a minute of Passion, a minute of Pathos, two minutes of Tragedy, and a minute of Triumph.

Before one knows what has happened the whole gorgeous thing is over; finished. And one rests, exhausted by a surfeit of emotion, having touched the depths and summits of feeling, in this dehydrated concerto. And all in the space of only 5 minutes.

New Aspect Presented In Interesting Documentary

By J. R. M.

"This is the face of war." These were the opening words of "Land of Hope", yesterday's Hillel sponsored presentation of the Film Society. Then followed an excellent series of battle scenes, bloody massacres and mass exhumations. Done in technicolor, the story of the last ten years was dealt with as much restraint as the subject would allow. Some of the shots have been seen before, often, but the approach was new.

"These are the men who wake to die." These words and the accompanying scenes of soldiers waking, fighting and dying were vital and true. Each soldier carried on in the belief that he would live, that he would finally reach home.

"But all do not die." There lay the hope, there lay the problem. Certainly the boys in the services could come back and start again, but what of the Jews? What was to happen to the 2,000,000 survivors of Europe's pre-war population of 7,000,000 Jews? What would be the monument to the dead? Something more was needed. One felt it, as the camera took one on a grim tour of gas chambers, concentration camps and fierce pogroms. To heighten the effect, a tiny guttering candle was superimposed on the whole scene. It was well done. When the necessity for a solution to the Jewish problem was patently obvious, the film took you to the Land of Hope, Palestine. Here the documentary departed from its previous realistic approach. Admittedly it showed the considerable reclamation of waste land, the fight against malaria, the agricultural development, the building of new schools and the renaissance of an ancient culture; but it ignored the other interests involved. In its focus on the peaceful rural panorama it omitted the wider issues at stake, the Arab question, the British problems.

Briefly, "Land of Hope" presented the case for the Jews with intelligence and force. The solution offered—settlement in Palestine—left many difficulties unsolved.

Also on the same program was History of the English Language.

Film Society Program Tonight

The Film Society will present an evening programme, tonight at 8.30 in Moyses Hall, featuring a film and commentary by Professor Wynne-Edwards, of McGill, and a ski film.

Professor Wynne-Edwards will be leaving the University this year, to take over the Regius Professorship at Aberdeen University. He came to McGill in 1930, as Assistant Professor of Geology. Birds and fish are his chief interest, and he has taken many trips to study wild life. One summer, Professor Wynne-Edwards crossed the Atlantic eight times—in four round trips—studying sea birds.

In his travels while studying sea birds, Professor Wynne-Edwards has visited Newfoundland, Labrador, and Baffin Island. In 1944 he travelled up the Mackenzie River, in a canoe.

Ellen Ballon Recital

On Friday night the last of the Students' Subscription Concerts was played by Ellen Ballon, pianist.

The program opened with an organ prelude by Bach, for the playing of whose music Miss Ballon is especially noted. Despite the difference in medium of production, Miss Ballon managed to capture very well the tone and effect of the original. There followed some variations of Beethoven, which, while they displayed very clearly the recitalist's technical ability, as they were intended to do, could not have been interesting even if performed by the master himself. The first half ended with a Chopin Sonata, of which the third movement is well known as a Dear March. This was also performed in an effective manner.

After the intermission, there came three shorter pieces by Chopin, which were more in the spirit one associated with that composer. Miss Ballon performed brilliantly here, but endowed the waltz with a shade too much éclat. An impromptu of Schubert, featuring the theme which he used in the Entr'acte to Rosamunde and in one of his quartets, followed, and its beautiful melody entranced the audience. Miss Ballon next played a Mendelssohn Scherzo, admirably capturing the disturbed spirit of this form.

The piano suite by Brodt was omitted, as Miss Ballon had played her last concert just three days before, and did not feel that she could do it justice with so short a time for practice. Instead she performed Liszt's Eleventh Hungarian Rhapsody, and one or two encores. She terminated the program with a Scherzo Humouristique of Aaron Copland.

Concert Tonight

Alexander Brodt will be soloist at the regular Tuesday night Concert Symphonique, to be held in Plateau Hall, at 8.30 tonight. Desire Defauw will conduct a program featuring the Double Concerto of Brahms, with Alexander Brodt playing the violin, and Roland Leduc, cello.

WITHDRAWALS

The following withdrawals of nominations have been announced:

Brian R. Macdonald—Vice-Pres. of the McGill Union.
Conrad Shatner—Secretary of Union.
Jon Ballon—President of the Union.
Doris Berbrier—Vice-Pres. of Debating Union Society.

to thank all those who supported my nomination.

Sincerely,
BRIAN MACDONALD.

Dear Sir,—I wish to announce my withdrawal as a candidate for the position of Secretary of the Union. I hereby wish to thank those who nominated me for the position.

Yours truly,
CONRAD SHATNER.

CO-ED COAST

Yesterday the MWSA Council heard the report from the Co-ed Coast. With the attendance of 134 couples the affair was judged a success financially and socially.

McGill Pucksters Seek To Avenge Varsity Loss In Contest Friday Night

Victory Essential for Redmen To Remain in League Race

Well, it's do or die for the boys of Old McGill when they skate out on the Forum ice this Friday to do battle with the invading Blues of Varsity. The Campbell clan has had their season's record blemished by the defeat handed them in the Queen City last Friday and another loss will put them on the outside looking in.

By TONY BLACKWOOD
Beat Toronto.

The team was shocked and stunned by the manner in which Varsity upset the old apple cart and dollars will get you doughnuts that the verdict will be reversed by 10:30 p.m. on Friday. Beat Toronto.

BEAT TORONTO

The key line of McGill victories to date has been the P.O.P. line of Pierson, O'Connor and Porteous and their effectiveness against the Bailey Bombers was surprising. The boys however feel that they have worked a bad game out of their systems and Halder et al will be fishing them out from behind Goalie Ball at a rate which will astound the Toronto fans. Beat Toronto.

To keep the boys in fighting trim Coach Campbell has arranged an exhibition match between McGill and St. Hyacinthe for tonight. The senior team with Pittfield, Murray and Mingie in addition are advised to be at the Union for supper at 5 p.m. as the bus leaves at 6 p.m. Beat Toronto.

BEAT TORONTO

This first defeat of the year to McGill puts titanic importance on Friday's game. For this reason student support is urged more than ever. The band will be out en masse and will add color to the affair. The cheer leaders will lead the McGill fans in exhorting their favorites on to victory while the gaudy flags will give the game a festive touch. The students will occupy the south end of the rink and it will be the first come first served. Beat Toronto.

Remember it's an important game. We've got to win so come out and cheer. Beat Toronto.

Coe swimmers will wind up their activities with an Intersection Marathon, the manager has announced. Today will mark the first of three sessions—March 5th and 12th during which representatives will compete. The idea is to see how many lengths one girl can do in ten minutes. At the end of the contest the lengths of each section are tallied and winning sections will receive points to be added to the final Inter-section Sports Champion score. As many girls as wish may enter from each section. Intercollegiate swimmers are ineligible. Tad-poles (dog-paddlers) will not endanger their section's chances since it is not an individual competition. Everyone should show up for this marathon since each entry adds to the sections points.

BADMINTON

Thursday the Women's Intercollegiate Badminton team leaves for Kingston for the five college meet. In the doubles and singles Jean Hood, P. A. Macfarlane, Anne Merson, and Joyce Elder will be representing McGill. The events will continue from Friday through to Saturday.

More Headaches Doug Toronto Enrols Stars

Toronto, February 23. — Warren Stevens coach of the University of Toronto's football intercollegiate team, yesterday said Al Leonard, who heaved passes and played backfield with Hamilton Tigers and Wildcats before the war, will turn out with the Varsity team this coming fall.

Leonard plans to enroll in the University of Toronto shortly.

Stevens said Leonard, who saw service with the Royal Canadian Navy as a Lieutenant during the war, will be joined by Billy Meyers and Steve Karrys, of Toronto Argonauts, and Fred Kijek, former Argo, Hamilton Tiger and Royal Canadian Air Force Hurricane kicker.

McGill Faces YMCA In Volleyball Contest

Today will see the end of the volleyball series when a team composed of the best that McGill can offer will tangle with a Y.M.C.A. squad in the Currie Gymnasium. This has been the best season for volleyball at McGill for many a year, and today's match will provide a fitting climax for the play. All through the series competition was very keen, and it will be remembered that the powerful Arts and Science squad was defeated only in the finals by the Phys. Eds. who won the championship.

The McGill All Stars will be composed of the following men, picked for their ability to toss a volleyball anywhere at any time, they are: George Frank, Ervina Heller, Larry Sirola, Marv. Shiller, Eli Solomon, Bruce Becker, and Lou Weingarten.

McGill Cagers Finish Season Facing YMHA and Queen's

The Red cagers put the finishing touches to what has been a fairly successful season as they complete the last two games of their schedule this week. Thursday, Coach Davies' men lock horns with the Y.M.H.A. in the Dodds Cup game, while Saturday they travel to Kingston to oppose the Golden Gaels.

McGILL VS. Y.M.H.A. The Dodds Cup will give the Redmen another opportunity to attempt beating the Mount Royal Street gang. In their two meetings this year the Abramovitch coached crew trimmed the McGill boys by four points each time.

The cup itself is offered to the winner of a game between the MBL league-leaders and the Mc-Gill club. In recent years the locals have been unsuccessful but Greenburg, Davidson et al are priming for this match.

REDMEN VS. QUEENS

On the weekend the McGill squad finishes its intercollegiate schedule as Coach Davies leads his men to Kingston against Queen's. Greenburg, Bower and Weisberg showed well in the match here last Saturday and may be counted upon to pace the Redmen in their quest for second place in the league. The Golden Gaels on the other hand have yet to post a victory and will be out to end the season on the right foot. It ought to be a rip-roaring battle, despite the raggedness of their last game in Montreal. It's been a grand season, nice going Basketball Team!

Red Hoopsters Bow to U. of M. In Inter Tussle

Squad Eliminated From Loop Play; Melville, Allen Star

By GERALD FINKELSTEIN

It was a hard-fought, close, aggravating game and we lost. Yes, our star-studded Red and White Intermediate basketball quintet went down to defeat last night, at the hands of the high-powered squad from the University of Montreal by the score of 24-23. The tilt, played at Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium, was the second of the two-game total point series, the first of which saw the U. of M. crew edge out the local boys by one point; thus giving the Blue and Gold a two point edge in the total score.

ADVANCE TO FINALS

By virtue of their win, the boys from the other side of the mountain now advance into the finals in the intermediate loop, and will play the winner of the Dawson-Georgian series. The tussle which started at 6 p.m. last night had all the qualities of a fast-moving, exciting senior M.B.L. game, but there was no crowd present to cheer the players on. Right up to the last minute of play the issue was in doubt, and the Redmen kept pressing till the sound of the final whistle had died—but alas! 'twas all in vain.

Starring for the victorious high-flying Frenchmen, was old-timer Cliff Melville who notched 10 points; and ably assisted by Rochon, who succeeded in garnering seven points for the U. of M. The Red and White team was sparked by the play-making of Allen and Davine, and although they scored six and five points respectively, their effort was not quite enough to give the McGill quintet a win.

Play started off in the first half at a terrific pace and coupled with the fact that the game was held on the main floor of the gym, was reason enough for players to be panting for breath after 10 minutes of play. Scoring opened up early in the tilt with a swish by Melville, which was quickly countered by a beautiful lay-up shot by MacKenzie of the Sherbrooke Street brigade. Both teams matched basket for basket throughout the first half, the score at the end of this half was 13-10 for the U. of M. quintet.

Although the Redmen outscored their opponents by the score of 13-11 in the second half, it wasn't quite enough to put them over the top in the final calculation. The game continued at a fast pace, and towards the end, each team forfeited a few free throws; taking the spheroid from the sidelines instead—all of which tended to speed up the play even more. For the last nine minutes of the game, the Red and White squad was held scoreless, while the Blue and Gold aggregate garnered the six most deciding points of the game. Final score was 24-23 for the U. of M., or a total of 47-45 in the two game series.

McGill vs. Varsity In Squash Match

Blue Team To Arrive For College Match On Saturday Afternoon

The McGill squash courts are in for another busy week after finishing the finals of the McGill Championship, when Pete Landry took a hard battle from Dave Culver 18-14, 15-12, 18-16 to win the tournament.

OPPOSE VARSITY

On Saturday afternoon a five man team from Varsity will tackle the McGill squash team in the first intercollegiate squash match ever played. Varsity have had squash courts for a number of years as compared with McGill's only five years. Nevertheless the matches should be very close. This it is hoped will be the fore-runner of a large intercollegiate tourney when Western and Queens build courts in the not too distant future. McGill have a number of good men to pick a team from including dark horse Bob Colquhoun who is at present out at Dawson but learnt the game in Scotland and was runner up for the McGill tourney in 1941.

Starting tomorrow the Quebec Class B Squash Singles will be held on the McGill courts. This is the first outside tournament ever awarded McGill which speaks highly of the club's advancement. About 20 A players in the province are ineligible to play in this tournament including the five previous winners who automatically stepped

NDG Pool Is Scene Of Return Engagement College Meet Saturday

The McGill swimming team will be out to avenge its defeat at the hands of the C.A.S.A. All Stars when the two teams meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the N.D.G. Community Hall pool.

In the last meet, the Red swimmers were nosed out by four points and this time they are counting on better conditioning to give them added pep. Ernie Taylor, 440 yard expert, will not be on hand for the contest. He was injured last Friday while swimming in the City Intercollegiate Swimming Meet, and is still in hospital. His absence will be greatly felt by the rest of the team.

MACLEAN STAR

One of the top men on coach Vic Curran's squad is John "Matchsticks" Maclean, a master of the backstroke who has shown extremely well in past performances. His smooth style has carried him to many a victory, and he will be depended upon to garner in some laurels for the team. Other stars on the team include Cooper, of water-polo fame, Fullerton, Quayle, Elder, Van Wagner, Athans, Fineberg, Mingie and Hoffman.

On Saturday, the Intercollegiate Meet for which these contests have been the preliminaries will be held at Kingston. According to reports the affair will be a struggle be-

Dawson Bows to Georgians In Intermediate Playoff Tilt

The Dawson cagers hovered on the brink of elimination from the Intermediate cage picture as the revitalized Georgians administered a 39-32 defeat to them. With this seven-point lead, the Montrealers will be hard to defeat when they face the St. John's boys come next Friday.

The first half started slowly and play was ragged. The Maroon and Gold forced the play and at half-time had a 23-12 lead. In the second half the Leonard-coached squad began to click and the lead narrowed somewhat. However, they could not catch the high-flying home squad and the game ended 39-32.

WESTMAN STARS

For the winners Westman played a standout game and racked up 11 points for the cause. Copping and Ken Taylor showed their usual form and counted for 20 points between them.

The second game of the two-game total point series will be held at the end of the week. The winner faces University of Montreal for the Intermediate title. At present Georgians are odds on favorites but it's impossible to write out Dawson till the final whistle. The Dawsonites ended the season tied in first place with McGill. Thrilled at the prospect of being named "The Shape, the future "The Shape" complied and they entered the laboratory. Here Blowtov made notes on "The Shape's astonishingly vital vital statistics and jotted them down on a special graph.

After his calculations he is reported to have said: "Tovarish, you are magnificent. . . . I would recommend you for any All-Union Congress Athletic Program. . . . or any Collective Cultural Program. At home I am sure that the Classification Committee would label you G 7. . . . although you are perhaps a little too slender for the Women's Cavalry."

"Now," said Blowtov, "I must photograph you. Step behind that screen and don this bathing suit." He produced at this point, the Ottawa official revealed, a bathing suit from a little black revolutionary bag of the type popular in the Balkans, and which he was wont to carry with him at all times.

While she was changing, Blowtov whipped out a small Stalinist candid camera, equipped with a Zeiss Tessar lens. He snapped a few ikons, in the meantime, of some of the intricate atomic equipment which clutters up McGill labs, and then was ready for "The Shape."

He had only taken one photo of her, however, when Sgt. Pad O'Loock, of the R.C.M.P. arrived. O'Loock, who had suspected such things ever since he had the Regina Manifesto, immediately arrested Blowtov.

"That," said the unimpeachable Ottawa official, "is the story. (Pheew!—Ed.) Blowtov is now being detained for questioning by Ottawa officials and feature stories by the Ottawa Journal.

In the meantime, however, Red and White Revue authorities secured the photograph of "The Shape" taken by the foreign agent and submitted it to The Daily for publication. Unfortunately "The Shape" herself, hating publicity, (Egad—Ed.) slipped out of the Physics Building at the time of Blowtov's arrest and her identity is still unknown.

"But we have her picture," said a high Red and White Revue official, "and we hope to find 'The Shape' in time for the production." All students were asked to help in the quest. (The photograph, printed elsewhere in this issue, was factually defaced in development, but it was felt that sufficient detail was visible to warrant publication.) "We also have the bathing suit," said the high official, "which she left behind in the commotion. It will be a hard suit to fill."

Ed. Note: Any resemblance between this and fact is purely coincidental.

official statement, which is quite an unusual journalistic procedure.

Blowtov, before the changes made by his government in 1936, was Commissar of Female Development (Communal Pulchritude Five Year Plan). He is recognized as one of the greatest authorities on the subject in the world. He was travelling through America at the time of the Red and White Revue's quandary over choosing "The Shape" and he consented to act as judge, especially when told of McGill's cyclotron project. (The revue is atomic—Ed.)

He was given a free hand soon after his arrival at McGill. Billed at Cafe Andre, he made daily tours of the university buildings, in search of the Perfect Woman and any other odds and ends he could pick up.

"One day," the high story went on, "Blowtov was loitering around the Physics Building. He liked this building. While standing in one of the corridors he noticed the mysterious co-ed whose identity is now the subject of extensive diplomatic exchanges. (And extensive corny publicity—Ed.)

Blowtov, whose English is limited, was heard to give vent to but one exclamation at the sight of this rare beauty. "Nuclear," he muttered.

Yukon Travels Film Is Shown Tonight

The pictorial record of the travels in the Yukon Territory of Dr. V. C. Wynne-Edwards and Dr. Ronald Grant is the feature presentation of this evening's meeting of the Film Society, to be held at 8.30 p.m. in Moyses Hall.

The film, which is about an hour in length, shows scenes in color, taken on the Yukon River between White Horse and Dawson City, sections of the Alaska Highway, and pictures taken by air in more remote parts of the Territory. Included is a view of Mount Logan, the second highest peak in North America, which is in the St. Elias Range.

Dr. Wynne-Edwards will comment during the showing of the film, which is open to students and their friends.

HILLEL

Saturday night there will be an informal dance in the Union Ballroom to conclude the campaign week of the United Jewish Students' Appeal. The tickets, at $1.25, are being sold to all McGill students and anyone can find out where to buy them by phoning HA. 9171. Music at the dance will be provided by Don Cameron's orchestra.

Hillel members: Make this campaign a success, by contributing the amount of each student's quota or more. Canvassers will contact each individual student.

RIFLE CLUB

The range will be closed to members after 7 p.m. because of a match against Mount-Royal tonight. Members are once more urged to turn out for practice. Remember that the Dominion marksman matches must be shot before March 18.

CAMERA CLUB

Meeting Tuesday, February 26, in Union Music Room, at 8.15 p.m. A showing of Hollywood Color Slides, cuts from Hollywood technicolor productions. These will be projected. A print criticism, and a selection of the prints to be exhibited in the Redpath Library week of March 4th.

RED & WHITE REVUE

Scenery construction periods will be held this week at the following times: Tuesday night at 7.00; Wednesday morning at 9.30; Wednesday night at 7.00; Thursday night at 7.00; Saturday morning at 10.00.

All those who signed up for construction and painting work are asked to come to one or all of the periods and any others interested will be welcome. There is lots of work for all, and all tools and equipment required will be provided. However, persons coming to these sessions should come in old clothing, or bring a lab coat or coveralls.

There will be a meeting of the Directors in the Revue office at one o'clock today.

MEMORIAL CAMPAIGN

Class representatives are reminded of the meeting being held at 5 p.m. today in the Union Ballroom. This meeting is important; if you cannot come please send a substitute. Anyone else who is interested is welcome to bring suggestions to the meeting.

Colleges Holding Memorial Drives

UBC Has Campaign Now for $500,000 Gymnasium Building

By BETTY BREWER

In universities all across Canada, campaigns are taking place to raise funds for the erection of war memorials. McGill was the first to start such a project; last year the Graduates' Society set out to raise $400,000 in order to build a swimming pool as an extension to the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium-Armory.

That their objective was passed by a margin of 25 per cent. is now an old story. Because of the enthusiasm with which last year's campaign was received the Society has begun a new drive—one which will enable McGill to complete her physical education facilities by building a rink-auditorium.

This can be done. The campaign being held in the University of British Columbia has proved it. Their approach has been boisterous but effective. The raiding of the cafeteria to bid for eggs was an unhappy thought for the members of the Jokers' Club who were at the receiving end of the missiles but a happy one for the War Memorial Campaign—the escapade netted $1,500 for the cause.

A mile of quarters is another feature of the campaign at U.B.C., and coeds will sell kisses to swell the funds towards the student objective of $100,000. Here at McGill we have no specific objective; many students contributed last year and this year the committee is soliciting the support of every student on the campus who did not make his contribution in the last session. This will include the new students and the veterans who re-entered the university this year.

The slogan is "One hundred per cent participation." Everyone will agree that we who cannot contribute financially to a very great extent can go along with the campaign by spurring on the graduates to greater efforts if we wholeheartedly support the campaign ourselves.

While the hilarious atmosphere surrounding the drive at U.B.C. is absent in the McGill effort, the social angle to the raising of funds will not be completely forgotten during the next ten days. Friday night McGill meets the Varsity hockey team in a return match which should prove the most exciting of the season. After the game the Red and White Society is sponsoring a dance at the Gym all proceeds of which will go into the campaign funds.

The Westerns are providing the music and the affair seems not only a splendid way to round out the evening but a painless method of doing our part in buying our rink-auditorium. The Red and White Society is hoping for a record turnout. "If U.B.C. can do it, McGill can do it," remarked a coed bubbling over with school spirit. In an effort to facilitate transportation from the Forum to the Gym, the Society is attempting to charter buses.

Cosmetics are to be promoted in the near future for the use of girls in the 5-15 age brackets. Any day now, it will be a wise father that knows his own child.
